Extensive oak veneer batten walls form the centrepiece of the joinery package for Mitek's new premises at 78 Springs Road, East Tāmaki. Wrapping around the lift lobby, reception and shared spaces, the detailed batten system brings warmth, rhythm and a consistent visual identity to the workplace.

Multiple kitchen areas were also completed, combining Melteca cabinetry, Caesarstone benchtops, Blum hardware and integrated LED strip lighting. The clean, practical design provides well-finished facilities suited to the demands of a busy office environment.

The scale and intricate pattern of the feature walls required careful coordination between the Joinery team, Haydn & Rollett's site team and the architects. Working through a demanding programme, the team manufactured and installed a substantial volume of joinery while maintaining the precision needed to achieve a cohesive result.
